Average Energy Prices, Chicago-Gary-Kenosha — July 2015

Gasoline prices averaged $3.029 a gallon in the Chicago-Gary-Kenosha area in July 2015, the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today. Regional Commissioner Charlene Peiffer noted that area gasoline prices were down 74.0 cents compared to July 2014 when they averaged $3.769 per gallon. Chicago area households paid an average of 16.0 cents per kilowatt hour (kWh) of electricity in July 2015, unchanged from July 2014. The average cost of utility (piped) gas at 78.3 cents per therm in July was down from $1.186 per therm a year earlier. (Data in this release are not seasonally adjusted; accordingly, over-the-year-analysis is used throughout.)

At $3.029 a gallon, costs for gasoline in the Chicago area were 13.6 cents higher than the national average of $2.893 a gallon in July 2015. In July 2014, gasoline prices in Chicago were comparable to the nation's; however, in the previous three years (2011-2013) in July, Chicago area gasoline prices were higher than the national average by 7.0 percent or more. (See chart 1.)

Technical Note

Average prices are estimated from Consumer Price Index (CPI) data for selected commodity series to support the research and analytic needs of CPI data users. Average prices for electricity, utility (piped) gas, and gasoline are published monthly for the U.S. city average, the 4 regions, the 3 population size classes, 10 region/size-class cross-classifications, and the 14 largest local index areas. For electricity, average prices per kilowatt-hour (kWh) are published. For utility (piped) gas, average prices per therm are published. For gasoline, the average price per gallon is published. Average prices for commonly available grades of gasoline are published as well as the average price across all grades.

All eligible prices are converted to a price per normalized quantity. These prices are then used to estimate a price for a defined fixed quantity. The average price per kilowatt-hour represents the total bill divided by the kilowatt-hour usage. The total bill is the sum of all items applicable to all consumers appearing on an electricity bill including, but not limited to, variable rates per kWh, fixed costs, taxes, surcharges, and credits. This calculation also applies to the average price per therm for utility (piped) gas.
